HISTORY: On March 24, 1893, millionaire William Waldorf Astor opened the 13-story Waldorf Hotel, at the site where his former mansion stood, at Fifth Avenue at 33rd Street. Built by renowned architect Henry Hardenbergh, The Waldorf was the embodiment of Astor's vision of a grand hotel, complete with electricity throughout and private bathrooms in many guest chambers – two of a long list of Waldorf firsts.

Four years later, in 1897, The Waldorf was joined by the 17-story Astoria Hotel, erected on an adjacent site by Waldorf's cousin, John Jacob Astor IV. The corridor built to connect the two buildings became an enduring symbol of the combined Waldorf and Astoria hotels.

In 1929, after decades of hosting distinguished visitors from around the world, the original Waldorf Astoria closed to pave the way for a reincarnation 15 blocks north on Park Avenue. The current hotel opened on October 1, 1931 as the world’s largest and tallest hotel, a veritable city-within-a-city. Today it remains one of the world’s largest Art Deco buildings and The Waldorf Astoria continues to be one of the city’s most beloved – and utilized – institutions.

WALDORF FIRSTS: The Waldorf Hotel (1893-1929) was the first hotel to offer complete electricity and private bathrooms. Since then, a long list of firsts evolved. Notably, the hotel was first to create many classic culinary delights including dishes such as the Waldorf Salad, Veal Oscar, Lobster Newburg, Eggs Benedict, and also popularized room service, Red Velvet Cake and Thousand Island Dressing. Famous cocktails first made here include The Robb Roy, The Bronx and The Robbie Burns and the hotel was the site of the first on-location movie, Weekend at The Waldorf (1945), starring Ginger Rogers, Van Johnson and Lana Turner. When the current property opened in 1931, it was the tallest and largest hotel in the world. The private event space The Hilton Room – where the dancing scene in Scent of a Woman was filmed – was once famous for helping create show business legends. Lena Horne broke the color barrier in that room as the first African-American to play such an establishment as The Waldorf Astoria. The first Senate hearings to investigate the Titanic disaster in 1912 began at The Waldorf Astoria, just four days after the sinking, before being relocated to the Russell Senate Office Building in Washington, D.C.

ACCOMMODATIONS: The Waldorf Astoria and Waldorf Towers offers a total of 1,413 guest rooms and suites, featuring original Art Deco motifs. Each room is decorated differently; no two are exactly alike. All feature marble bathrooms, minimum 37 inches flat screen televisions (In most rooms), dual-line speakerphones with voice mail, complimentary in-room premium cable, video check-out and Internet access. The hotel room inventory includes:

- 1,232 single and double rooms, including 208 mini and one-bedroom suites, 17 of which are Astoria Level upgraded rooms and suites. The Astoria Level features Deluxe and Superior amenities, daily newspaper and complimentary use of the Astoria Lounge, which confers a relaxing atmosphere in which to enjoy complimentary Continental breakfast.

- The Waldorf Towers is our boutique hotel occupying the floors 27 to 42 of The Waldorf Astoria. The Waldorf Towers feature a collection of 181 room accommodations, including 115 impressive suites configurable to meet the requirements of every guest. Cheerful bedrooms, oversized marble bathrooms, and gracious touches such as fine antiques and individual décor create an inviting residential appeal. It is the preferred New York residence of heads-of-state, royalty, celebrities and corporate moguls. Herein, a stunning collection of luxurious and spacious one- two- three- and four-bedroom suites and deluxe guest rooms are offered, including The Presidential Suite, home away from home for every American President since Herbert Hoover when in New York, and The Royal Suite, a recently and lavishly refurbished former residence of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

RESTAURANTS & BARS: Innovation and tradition meet at The Waldorf Astoria's acclaimed restaurants, bars and lounges. From the stylish Peacock Alley, the jewel of the hotel’s lobby, renowned for its extravagant brunch and fish and seafood menu, Bull and Bear Steakhouse, a Manhattan institution and Oscar’s American Brasserie for casual dining.

Peacock Alley located in the heart of the bustling main lobby with its gilded ceiling, Deco design and frieze includes an upscale restaurant, a bar and lounge, three private dining salons, and successfully marries the hotel’s classic surroundings with a fresh, contemporary look. Peacock Alley’s Chef de Cuisine delight guests with an elaborate fish and seafood menu and “small plates” offerings, giving them a unique culinary experience. Peacock Alley is open for power breakfast, lunch, dinner and offers a selection of small plates at lunch, dinner and in the afternoon at the bar. The hotel’s famed Sunday Brunch is also provided by Peacock Alley.

Bull & Bear features one of the most historic and well-recognized bars in New York City. The clubby and classic steakhouse offers a selection of signature chops and seafood with a selection of Prime steaks and natural grown beef from Dakota Farms.
